Richmond Supply Company has one of the South's largest inventories of industrial products. With over 50,000 ft. of warehouse space we are able to satisfy needs ranging from Conveyor Belting to Paint -- and all from a single location.

We don't have to form partnerships with other suppliers to fulfill your needs. We are a true integrated supplier -- offering products and services in eight distinct product groups, and all under one roof.

Our computer technology enables us to do things like receive orders via EDI or bar code items with your storeroom part numbers. Our plans also include on-line ordering over the Internet (<http://www.rsci.com>).

Over half of our company's support staff wear beepers. We're available to you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. And by having over $3 million in inventory we're usually able to help you during downtime.

To access emergency service it's simple -- dial our regular toll free number (800-282-8556) and leave a voice recording with your name and phone number; we'll call you right back.

At Richmond Supply Company we know there's a lot more to painting than buckets and brushes. Industrial paint jobs often require special surface preparation and application techniques in order to produce coatings that will stand up to heavy use.

As a full-range industrial supplier, we understand the special needs of our customers. Our paint specialists work closely with your crew to provide protective coatings that are tough enough to take whatever you dish out.

SERVICE

At Richmond Supply you'll find some very special extras with every can of paint we sell -- things like on-site training, troubleshooting, plant surveys and specification-writing.

You won't have to worry about making calls to out-of-state paint manufacturers for answers to your technical questions. Call us and let our paint specialist come to your site for consultation on surface preparation, coatings choice and application. Best of all, we'll do this as a courtesy service.

We stock a complete selection of industrial coatings to quickly satisfy most of your painting needs. And unlike most paint stores, we're not limited to selling one or two paint lines. We choose from a wide array of manufacturers to find the best product for your application.

For difficult applications we choose from a number of specialty paint manufactures whose products are built with a particular service in mind -- whether it be high temperature, flooring, or secondary containment.

TRAINING

Most paint failures happen because of poor surface preparation, improper mixing or simply choosing the wrong paint for the job. Some surfaces require only detergent cleaning while others need chemical or abrasive blast cleaning.

We'll show your paint crew how to avoid costly mistakes by training them in the correct procedures for surface preparation. We'll even work with your contractor to make sure that he has a clear understanding of what the job requires.

Proper training can mean the difference between wasted effort and an enduring, cost-effective paint job.

COLOR MATCHING

Matching your paint colors is not a problem. We have hundreds of special recipes for individual customers on file. Let us match one for you. We're able to tint most all of our paints including enamels, epoxies and urethanes. With Richmond Supply Company you don't have to settle for off-the-shelf colors.

TURNKEY SOLUTIONS

Often times it's best for you to consider a turnkey solution. Let us quote you on the entire job -- from start to finish.

We work with a number of reputable contractors. Together we'll determine your needs, and in turn provide a seamless job including the product, application and cleanup.

And just like our philosophy on paint selection, we'll choose the best contractor for the application. We realize that painting a concrete floor is a lot different from painting structural steel, and so let us find the best applicator and the best product for the job.
